Thomas E. Hill has written a book which will interest most of the people of America just at present because its name is "Money Found." Mr. Hill says, with at least partial truth, that the cause of the country's present distress was lack of confidence in private banks, even the ones called national. The remedy he thinks is for the government to open its own banks and do a banking business. It should pay 3 per cent for money on long time deposits, receive short deposits subject to be drawn out by check and lend money to the people at 4 per cent on good security. It would thus transact the business of banks of issue, savings banks and banks of deposit. The people would have a place to deposit their savings in which they would have unlimited confidence. Business the country over could be transacted by checks, thus decreasing the opportunities for stealing, Mr. Hill thinks. He declares also that his plan would bring in nearly $400,000,000 a year in government revenues.

The author says in his preface: "So many books have been written about Christ, telling people to come to Christ, yet failing to give a tangible idea of how Christ is to be found. We thought of letting this work fill that place: Tell people of Christ, when to seek for salvation and how to obtain it." We think the little work meets the want very well.
